DESIGN CENTER

THANK YOU

Welcome to Laguna Design Center's Fall Market!

As one dictionary definition describes, an influencer is the individual whose effect on the purchase decision is in some way significant or authoritative.

In that sense YOU as an interior designer are an influencer upon your clients, our showrooms and their respective lines are influencers of the selections you make on behalf of your clients - and by hosting such educational events, the LDC also has the opportunity to be an influencer in our community and industry.

Today, I encourage you to be inspired by our Fall Market Design Influencers theme, and know that the showrooms hosting special events and especially the Center Court speakers we have gathered for you throughout the day have made a notable impact on the direction of our industry.

It is an honor to be with you here today in spirit, as Laguna Design Center is a cornerstone of the Southern California design community and on behalf of our team and incredible collection of showrooms, we thank you for your involvement.

B&C SELECT Water Saving Solutions for Spa-Like Showers, CF-92649

The modern shower is a retreat; a place to relax and unwind, and also energize and revitalize. The challenge for interior designers and architects is to create a luxurious, nurturing shower experience, while still complying with important and increasingly stringent water conservation requirements. This course discusses water conservation; applicable codes, standards, and guidelines; and the shower compartment technologies that address conservation issues. We will highlight the differences between thermostatic and inferior pressure balance valves so you can select the optimal solution for your bathroom designs.
